

The King's Constitutional Responsibilities

Every day, a red box is delivered to The King containing many important letters and reports from government. He is often asked to approve these by adding his signature.

He also receives many letters from children all around the world. If you were to write to The King, what would you say? Have a go!

